MR. SHERWOOD BONNEY

A Review of the Football Season

THE Hill team, with a hard season, scored four victories, was tied once, and was defeated in the Hotchkiss game. Everything considered, this was a very successful year in that the eleven, rated as only fair at the beginning, won its way to the front ranks of prep school teams. Although this season's was not a championship team, the Blue and Gray was an effective fighting machine and displayed fine spirit and fight in every contest. The unexpected success of the eleven is due a great deal to the able coaching of Mr. Ward, with whom Mr. Bonney and Mr. Mahan worked hand in hand. The final contest, when Hotchkiss eked out a 14-13 victory over The Hill in the last few minutes of play, will long be remembered; every man on the team played spectacularly throughout the encounter.

The Hill's first game was with Williamson Trade School and was played after only a few weeks of practice, yet the team showed instances of its beautiful teamwork which so marked the later games. The game was easily won, 12-6, with Spalding and Durrell accounting for the two touchdowns.

The Yale Freshman Seconds was the next team to battle The Hill, and it, too, went back a loser. The frosh provided fairly stiff opposition but The Hill offensive had begun to click, with the result that the score stood 12-6 at the end of the game. Smale and Brown each tallied.

Poly Prep fell in line when The Hill played it at Brooklyn. This was the only game the team did not play on the Dell Field. It was the second year the eleven has played Poly; The Hill has won both games. After Dollar had caught a long pass, Brown carried the ball over for the only touchdown of the game. The score was 7-0.

Lawrenceville visited The Hill with a strong team and with great hopes of winning the contest. The game was a hard-fought one, but neither eleven managed to score. There were times when touchdowns seemed probable for each school, but the two squads were too evenly matched for either to tally. This encounter was marked by excellent spirit and clean, hard playing on both sides. The traditional red shirt remains unwashed although the soap and water were certainly on several occasions, ready for application.

In November The Hill defeated a weak aggregation of Princeton Freshman Seconds by the score of 19-0. The game was an easy one, and served as a preliminary for the annual Hotchkiss encounter. Smale scored two touchdowns.

Hotchkiss and The Hill fought a memorable contest on Dell Field in their annual fracas, November 10. This was by far the year's most exciting and spectacular game; it was an admirable climax for the season. In the first quarter, the visitors took an early lead, but after the half, were swept off their feet as Smale and Durrell each carried the ball over the goal. The game continued until the last few minutes of play, when Hotchkiss, trailing by six points, staged a fighting drive down the field for a tally. In converting the extra point they took the game 14-13.

The play of each individual on The Hill team was superior to that in any other game. Newly elected Capt. Smale, Durrell, Spalding, and Michell were irreproachable in the backfield.

Those who played their last games for The Hill were: Bob Noyes, Bill Messinger, Stan Bayless, Larry Durrell, Jimmie Smale, and Jesse Spalding.

Review of the 1933 Track Season

ON a Saturday afternoon in the last of May, the 1933 Track Team found itself at the end of its season with two main objectives accomplished, namely, the defeat of Lawrenceville and victory in the Princeton Interscholastics.

At the outset of the season the team appeared mediocre and continued so until the real tests came. Then, an inspired Blue and Gray outfit swept the field. Throughout the year Captain Keller and Dick Worth were outstanding in the dashes, while Grace, Bob Biddle and Medina were always potential point winners in the field events.

The Hill lost its opening meet to Temple Freshmen by the slight margin of $\frac{2}{5}$ of a point, the score being $63\frac{1}{5}$ to $62\frac{4}{5}$. Captain Keller led the high scoring for The Hill, with firsts in the 100 and 220 along with a third in the broad jump. Benson, Worth, Biddle, Medina, and Grace each took a first place.

The next week saw a fine relay team being nosed out by Loughlin Memorial and Newark Prep in the Penn Relays. Dick Worth, anchor man for The Hill, rounded the first turn of the last quarter abreast with the leader, but in the final sprint he was forced into third place, finishing a scant five yards behind the winner. The time was 3:27.5 seconds, three and one-half seconds faster than The Hill's winning time of 3:31 the year before. For its splendid performances in this and several winter meets, this team is said to be the best in the school's history.

Then came the peak of the season, the Princeton Interscholastics. Faced by the responsibility of retaining the title for the fourth consecutive year, a determined Hill team waded through water and mud to ultimate victory. Led by Bob Biddle, Medina, and Gene Grace, the team amassed forty points and dominated a field including such schools as Newark Prep, Mercersburg, St. Benedict's, and Lawrenceville.

The team encountered another water-soaked field at the Lafayette Interscholastics on May 13, but the outcome was not as favorable as that at Princeton. Newark Prep avenged its defeat of the preceding week by taking first honors with 58 points. The Hill was second with a total of 48. The Blue and Gray was seriously handicapped by there being no hammer throw, the event which netted nine and one-half points the previous week. Again the pole vault proved to be The Hill's strong point—Medina and Biddle cleared the bar at twelve feet to tie for first place while Harrison at eleven feet, six inches tied for fourth.

The dual meet with Lawrenceville, the supreme test of the team's powers, was on May 20. Although Lawrenceville had placed fifth to The Hill's first at Princeton, the Red and Black had still great potentialities as a dual team. When the meet had ended The Hill had won 65 to 61. Making a clean sweep in the 440, the javelin and the pole vault, the team went on to take first places in the discus and the broad jump. Irwin, captain of Lawrenceville, was high point scorer of the meet with three first places; he set unofficial records in each of these three events. Kingsley, with firsts in the javelin and discus, shared second scoring honors with Thompson of Lawrenceville. Captain Keller netted seven points for The Hill with a first in the 220 and a second in the century. In the pole vault, Biddle and Medina turned in splendid performances by clearing the bar at twelve feet four inches, while Kingsley, Dick Biddle, and Wiley placed first, second, and third, respectively, in the javelin. Noteworthy in the dashes was the 440, wherein Worth, Davis, and Burch took all three places for The Hill.

For molding this team, Messrs. Colbath, Sweeney, Collier, and Ward can receive no greater award than a recollection of its achievements.

Review of the 1933 Baseball Season

THE HILL baseball team swept through a very successful season of twelve games, being defeated by only one team, Lawrenceville. They achieved an unusually brilliant record attaining one of the best among The Hill diamond archives. Probably, notwithstanding its other victories, The Hill was most to be congratulated because of its clean-up triumph over Hotchkiss, 21-0. Captain Dorhman Yuengling and Dick Hebard were the most outstanding of this triumphant team whose record will linger long in the memory of Hill ball fans.

The Hill was victorious in its first scheduled game of this season, when the Blue and Gray team defeated Williamson Trade School. Although The Hill was handicapped by the absence of Captain Yuengling, the battery of Spalding, Glatfelter and McAlpin pulled the team through to a victory. The number of errors was very low, Williamson Trade having two to The Hill's one.

The Hill team returned from Gilman Country Day School in Baltimore, bringing with them a 14-3 victory. Under the warm Maryland sun the playing conditions were hampered only by a rather strong, adverse wind, which, blowing continually across the pitcher's path of delivery, hindered him considerably. Probably the most laudable element in The Hill's playing was the fielding of Hebard.

The turning point of the season came on the following Friday with the Princeton Freshman game. Superb pitching, errorless fielding, and timely batting won the contest, 12-6, over the visitors. The heavy hitting of Captain Yuengling, Smale, and Tan accounted for most of the tallies.

Tome offered little opposition to the Blue and Gray; they were easily conquered, 7-0. This game ended in the second inning, because of a sudden downpour of rain.

Both games with Lawrenceville were exceptionally close. In the first game The Hill continued its winning streak by defeating its rivals 4-2, before a large and enthusiastic gathering of Alumni and week-end guests. Because of the recent heavy rains the playing field was quite wet, but the game was none the slower for it. The fact that there was, in the whole game, but one error is ample evidence of the fine defensive work on both teams. The game was closely contested throughout with the score tied until the eighth inning, when The Hill combined three singles with a wild pitch to score the two winning runs. In the second game Lawrenceville avenged this defeat by scoring seven runs in the first two innings, turning back The Hill 7-6.

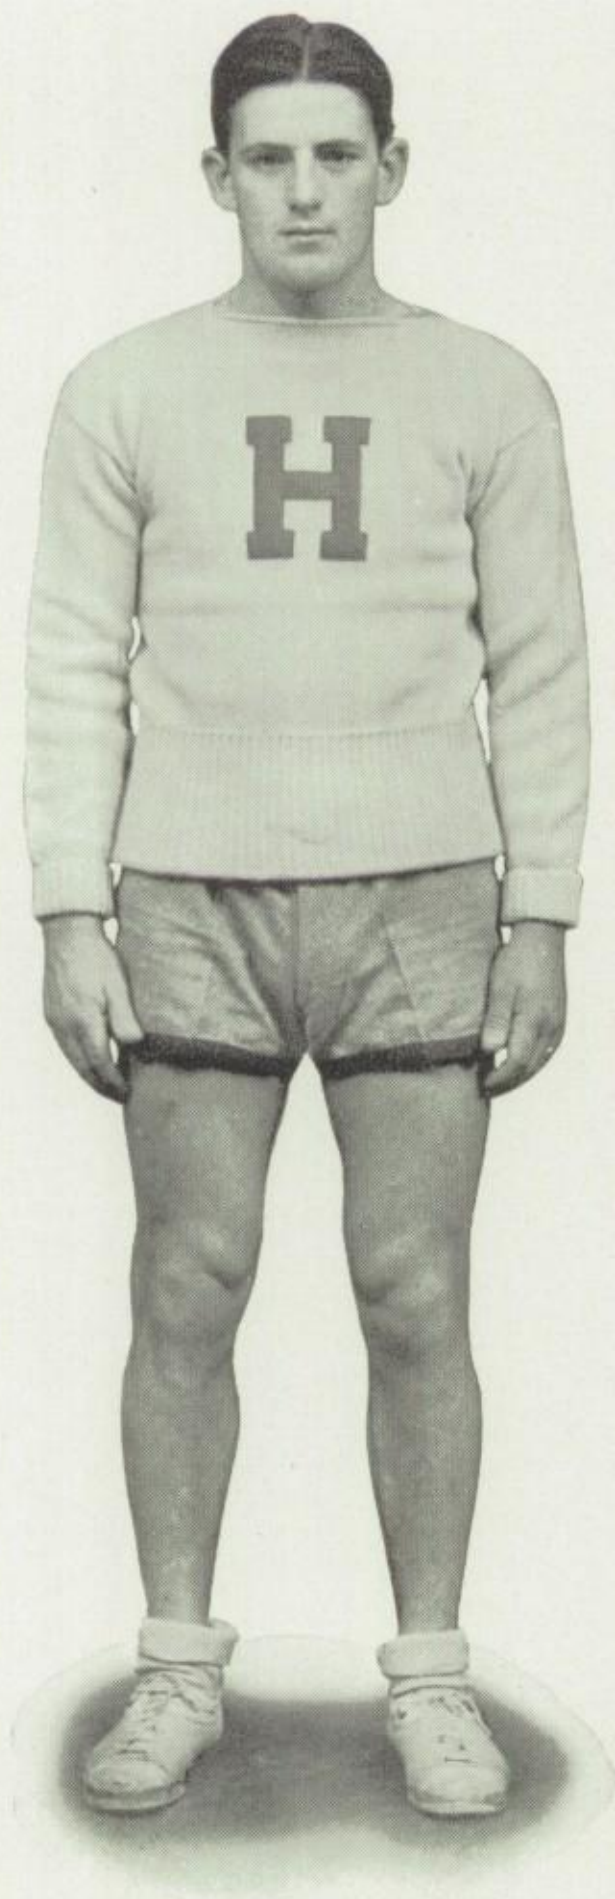

Captain Yuengling's nine scored an overwhelming victory, 21-0, over a scrappy Hotchkiss team. Through its innumerable hits and by capitalizing on their rivals' errors, The Hill climaxed its season by dealing to its rivals the worst defeat ever received from the Gray and Blue. Michell gave a fine performance on the mound, keeping exceedingly cool in the few pinches and limiting the opportunities of the Lakeville men to a minimum. In its last game that immortal outfield of Hebard, Robins, and McCaslin had little opportunity to exhibit its ability. But, notwithstanding this, its work against Penn Fresh, Princeton Fresh, and Lawrenceville, distinguished it as the greatest trio of fielders and batters ever on a Hill diamond.

Review of the 1934 Basketball Season

HE graduation of six members of last year's basketball team reduced the 1934 prospects to one man, Captain Smale. Around him Mr. Denman had to build with new and inexperienced material. The resulting quintet was much better than was expected, winning six out of the ten games played.

Captain Smale was not only the mainstay of his five in spirited fight and leadership, but was the high scorer of the season. He played every minute of every game. Evans, at the other guard, played a brilliant defensive position while his running mate was doing the scoring. At center, Allen, although forced to the bench by injuries for two games, added 42 points to the season's total. Michell at forward showed himself to be a fine floor-man and, aided by the fast passing of Gates, often broke loose. Gates, besides being second high scorer, always held his man to a minimum number of points.

The Hill won its opening game with Haverford J V by the score of 33-29. It was a close game with Smale high scorer at 19 points.

The following Saturday the team was defeated by the Princeton Frosh. It was extremely hard for our men to score due to the physical height of the opposing quintet. Smale was again the high point scorer.

The Blue and Gray came out of the doldrums the next week and defeated Tome, 33-14. At the end of the first half The Hill led 22-4, but for some reason the Blue and Gray always seemed to slow up in the third quarter, for at the end of the third the score was 23-14. In the last period The Hill retaliated by scoring ten points and shutting its opponents completely out.

Against Girard College The Hill played a rather slow and uninteresting game, in which they were victors by a score of 22-16.

The Lafayette Frosh played The Hill the following week; it was apparently Lafayette's off-day, for they made a poor showing, and were defeated 27-18.

Another defeat for The Hill was met in the Penn Frosh game. Penn had a fast and clever team which forced The Hill five into a too fast pace. The score at the half was fairly even, 9-12, but in the second period the Penn team scored 16 points to The Hill's 7.

The next Wednesday The Hill faced the Swarthmore J V and swamped them with a score of 37-7. Smale was high point scorer, followed closely by Allen. The one-sidedness robbed the game of any element of excitement.

In the Princeton Prep game The Hill five played the best basketball of the season. Every man on the team had a splendid game, and Smale was hard pressed in holding his record for high point scorer. After a thrilling and fast game, the visitors were defeated, 33-28.

The defeat by the Ursinus Freshmen was somewhat of a surprise. The Hill led at the half, 17-15. As usual the Blue and Gray slowed up somewhat in the third quarter, and Ursinus crept into a 29-26 victory. There were many thrilling moments due to the numerous tie scores.

The Lawrenceville game, played at The Hill, climaxed the season. It was extremely closely contested up to the half, when the score was 16-16. The Lawrenceville team played a cool and methodical game, capitalizing at each opportunity. In the third quarter the Red and Black scored heavily making six points in the first minute of play. The end of the game saw a 33-21 defeat for The Hill, a defeat not at all ignominious, for it came from a team marked by better floor-work and more accuracy in shooting.

Review of the 1933 Soccer Season

AFTER a championship year in 1932, the Hill soccer team maintained its high position fairly successfully this year with three victories and four narrow defeats. An aggressive, scrappy eleven was built around six lettermen. The remaining positions were filled by boys with little experience, but who were eager and quick to grasp the fundamentals of the game. Such veterans as Capt. Biddle, Byers, Close, Butcher, Feroe, and Kingsley formed the nucleus. Byers, by his work in the goal, proved himself to be one of the cleverest and most capable players ever in a Hill line-up. Capt. Biddle at fullback was the backbone of the defense. A veteran halfback line of Close, Kingsley, and Feroe showed its stamina and aggressiveness with concrete results, while Butcher, on the forward line, for another year was the most dependable kicker and scorer on the team. Among the new members of the squad, Sylvester and Murphy were outstanding. Sylvester worked smoothly with the advanced line, while Murphy proved dependable at fullback. Sixth Formers playing their first year of soccer, namely, Huvelle, Wilkinson, Charles Jamison, James Davis, and Phinizy, ably filled the remaining positions. By virtue of the coaching of Mr. Coperthwaite the eleven developed rapidly into a first rated team by mid-season.

The Hill lost its first game of the season to Girard College on October 10 by a 2-1 score. Girard, with a clever passing attack, led throughout the game. Butcher made The Hill's only point with a well directed penalty kick.

In the next game, on October 21, The Hill team showed a great improvement over the previous week to defeat Penn Freshmen 5-2. Sylvester and Feroe led the scoring for the Blue and Gray, with David Close defensively smashing each Penn attack.

The Haverford Thirds succumbed to a well-drilled Hill team, 6-0, on October 26. The visitors began to "click" late in the game but could not cope with The Hill's full-launched scoring attack. Butcher scored four of the Blue and Gray's total.

The next encounter on November 1 saw The Hill play one of the finest games ever played on Kaul Field; it was lost 3-2 to a powerful West Chester J. V. eleven. The Blue and Gray threatened during the entire game but could never surmount the lead taken by their opponents in the first quarter. Kingsley was excellent in his heading and defensive work, while Butcher again led the scoring by cleverly netting two goals.

The Hill went away to play Princeton Freshmen on November 1. Under very poor weather conditions the Blue and Gray was defeated 2-0, in an extremely hard-fought game. With a strong wind for its disadvantage, The Hill vainly attempted to subdue an impregnable Princeton defense. Byers was invaluable at goalie, where he continually turned back Princeton's scoring threats.

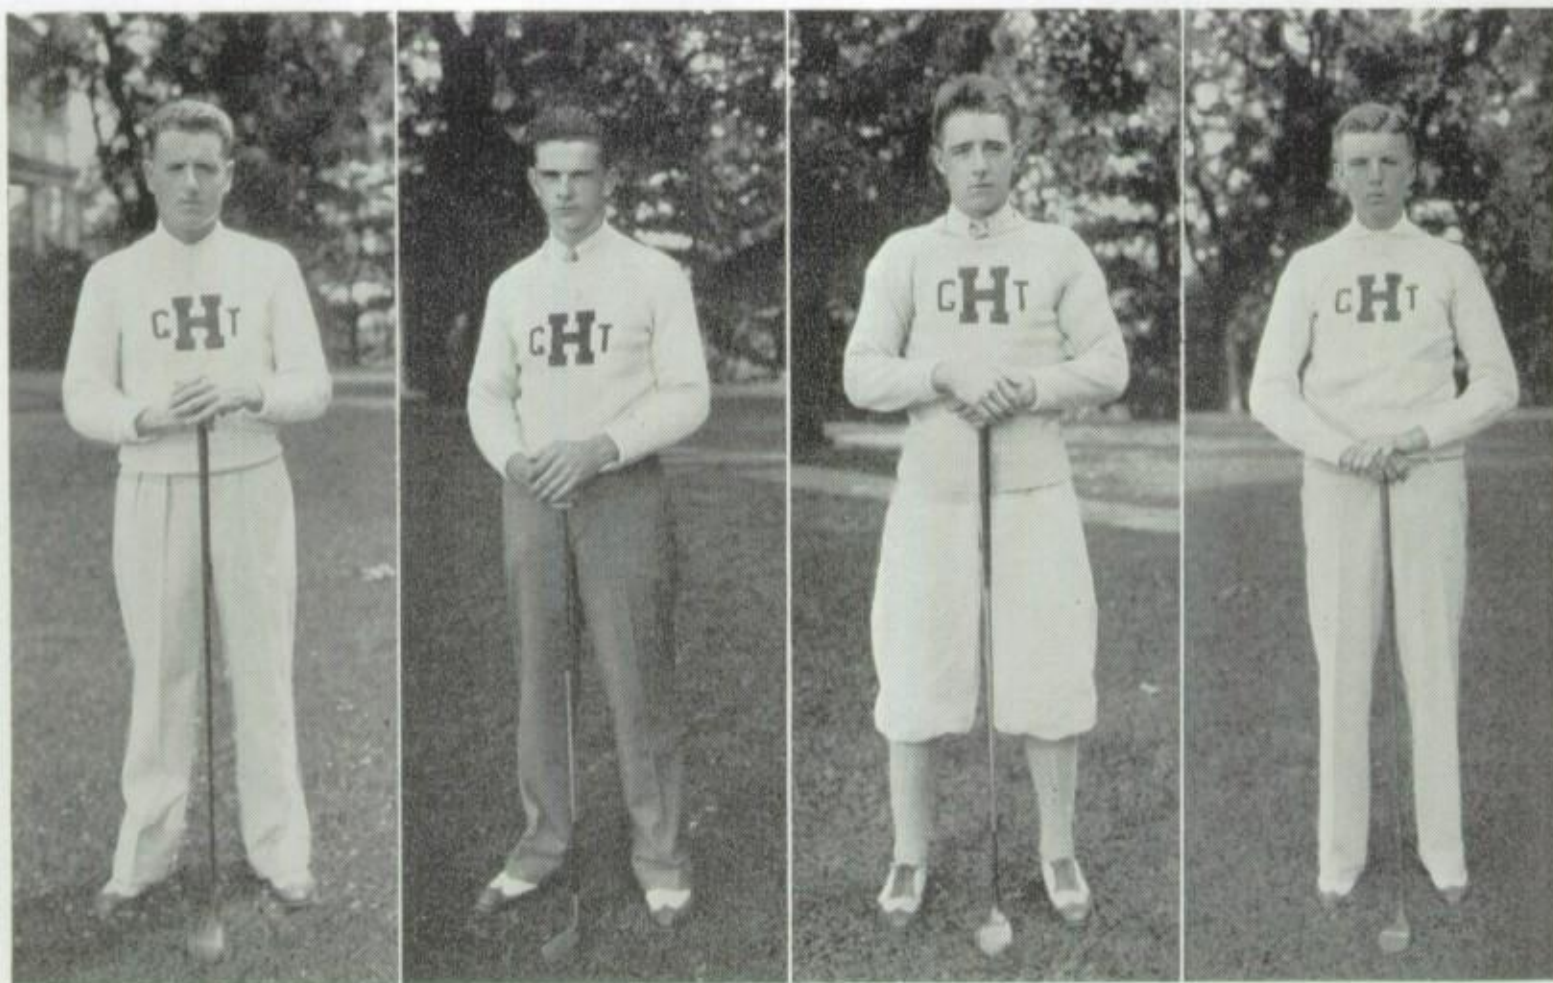

Moorestown Friends School bowed to a spirited, fourth quarter rally of The Hill on November 18. The play was very fast and not until a final drive in the last period did the Blue and Gray tally. A goal by Sylvester tied the score; it was quickly followed by equally productive shots of Close and Butcher. It was this game that brought the regular season to a close—a season of three victories and the same number of defeats.

The game with the Merion Cricket Club found The Hill at its peak. We may conscientiously say that the team in this game was the finest Blue and Gray outfit ever seen. Although Merion, a team consisting of experienced ex-college men, was the victor, The Hill's soccer was of a superb brand. Close and Sylvester tallied for the two points, while Byers was excellent in his goal-tending.

Through graduation the soccer team will lose the majority of its members: Capt. Biddle, Close, Butcher, Byers, Huvelle, Wilkinson, Phinizy, Feroe, Charles Jamison, and Benham. Murphy, Imer, Kingsley, and Captain-elect Sylvester are returning as the nucleus for what we hope will be a team marked by the same improvement and perseverance that belonged to the eleven of 1933.

Review of the 1933 Golf Season

THE golf season of 1933 was probably the most successful The Hill has had in many years. Jack Munger showed excellent form; he failed to lose a single match for the season.

In the first match the golf team defeated the Haverford College team by a score of six and one-half points to a half point. Munger and Chase paired very well, having a best ball of thirty-three on the first nine. Captain Munger played brilliantly at times, making three birdies on the last three holes of the first nine. Considering the strong wind, his score of seventy-four was an excellent accomplishment. Chase was the much improved golfer; iron play was the strongest phase of his game.

In the match with Princeton Freshmen The Hill team met its first defeat of the season with a score of five to four. Munger defeated Malloy three and two, carding a burning seventy-one. Chase was beaten two and one by Newsome, who scored a seventy-five. In the second foursome Hassett was beaten by Graham one up. Jamison defeated Keats two and one; he played an exceptionally steady and courageous game, to score a seventy-eight.

Munger's team scored again in the Lawrenceville match, tallying six to three. The Hill's captain managed to get a seventy-five, easily defeating Dyson, who totalled an eighty-one. Hassett overcame his opponent with the score of seventy-eight to eighty-one.

The Hill golf team won a decisive victory over the Penn Freshmen team on the home course by the score $7\frac{1}{2}$ - $1\frac{1}{2}$. The weather hampered the players to some extent, it being exceptionally warm and enervating.

All told, the team enjoyed a very successful season, its members being awarded the blocked "G-H-T."

Review of the 1933 Tennis Season

ALTHOUGH this season's tennis team was inferior to those of the last few years, it was marked by a dogged fight and determination which was apparent in all its matches. In the fall matches with Lawrenceville, our opponents succeeded in sweeping every match. The Blue and Gray men were severely beaten and in only one did the play extend more than two sets.

The Lawrentians seemed to possess a degree of confidence which was lacking in The Hill men, and this, combined with their skill, enabled the Red and Black to gain an easy victory. The Hill's leading player, Hebard, was absent from this meet.

Dick Hebard, captain of The Hill tennis team, won praise when he made his way into the final round of the National Junior Indoor Tennis Championships at New York. Topped only by Marco Hecht, twice before winner of the indoor crown, Hebard swept through the early rounds of the tourney with ease.

The Hill team invaded the territory of the Gilman Country Day School to return as victors with the score of 8 to 1. In the next matches Hill was defeated by the stronger Princeton Freshmen. The home team, bolstered by the skillful and steady playing of Hebard, fought doggedly and well, but could not cope with the capability of its opponents.

The Hill tennis team won a hard-fought victory from the University of Pennsylvania Freshmen on the Cook Courts by the score of 5 to 4. Robert Biddle was the outstanding player of this match.

The Hill tennis team lost to Lawrenceville by the score of 7 to 12. It was the first major defeat for The Hill by Lawrenceville netmen in six years. Hanan, of Hill, lost to Moore, as Kingsley did to Campbell. Bloomfield lost to Mitchell, of the Red and Black. Moir and Grand were the only ones to retain any of The Hill's former prestige.

THE Trap team began its 1933-34 season with practically the same team that went undefeated last year. Two of last year's regular men were lost, and one good newcomer, Merritt Gano, was added to the list. There were only four matches in the Fall term, all of which were won. Three of these were shot under bad weather conditions, but good scores were turned in nevertheless. In the school matches Hotchkiss was defeated with scores of 219-171; Taft, 225-131; Kiski, 219-147; and Choate, 234-174. The highest individual scorers are Drummond and Chase with a 47, 48 and 44, 46, 47 respectively.

For the past three years the Hill Trap Team has been going very well, having been undefeated for that period. In fact, owing to a lucky concentration of school fellows interested in shotgun shooting, the teams have been so far above the average school team that no really serious opponents have been found as yet. A great many matches are scheduled for the Spring term, and with the favorable shooting weather some record scores are hoped for and expected.

The regular members of the Trap Team are Chase, Drummond, Foote, Gano, Howard, Johnson and Wendell.

The Hill School Rifle Team

THE HILL Rifle team was only fair this year and poor compared to last year's championship team. Three of last season's best men, Bass, Soule, and Alton, were lost, and the rest didn't quite live up to expectations. Three new members, Potts, Gano, and Hiscock, were added to the team this year.

In the National Rifle Association bi-weekly matches the school team has fallen from last year's fifth place in Division A to thirteenth in Division B. Sickness and absences of members has been a large contributing factor toward pulling down the scores throughout the year.

There have been quite a few matches with the best high school teams in this section of the country during the winter, most of them postal but a few shoulder-to-shoulder. We were defeated by Kingswood 492-488, by Upper Darby 488-485, and by Waterloo 492-484. A shoulder-to-shoulder match with Episcopal resulted in a victory, 488-486.

The regular members of the rifle team are Drummond, Foote, Gano, Howard, Hiscock, Pew, Potts, and Wendell. Dyer has also been shooting well and has placed in the last few matches. Drummond and Wendell have been the high scorers with averages of 98 and 97.2 respectively.

Many of the younger members of the Club have been shooting for the various N. R. A. medals. In this field Wendell has reached the highest possible point, having qualified as a "distinguished rifleman." Much credit is due Mr. Bristol for developing the interest and ability of the lower form members through his coaching in this particular phase of target shooting.

The News

WITH the economic horizon a little more propitious than it had been for their predecessors, the 1934 News Board was able, though it could not afford a pictorial, to improve its contents to a large extent.

The average number of articles increased from thirty to forty-two. The long and drawn-out write-ups of speeches and athletic events were eliminated, and articles reduced to the "reader interest" minimum. New articles, a herculean task, were found, and The News really became something of a newspaper instead of a review of the known events of the past week.

Several new columns were added which appeared more or less regularly. They were, On the Air, The Candid Camera, This and That, Hobbies, and Station W3DDL. Of these new features the first two were the most popular. On the Air has only been made possible by the granting to the Sixth Formers of the radio privilege. It was very ably handled by Douglass Ballin. Bill Brown contributed the pictures for The Candid Camera and gave The News its most popular feature.

No review would be complete without the mention of the financial side of the organization. The '34 Board was fortunate to have a surplus left to it. The 1933 Board is proud of having paid $300 of an old $1,000 debt and leaving a larger surplus to its successors than it received.

One of the greatest boosts to The News has been its adviser, Mr. Rice, who has been of real service and has given much beneficial advice. It is fortunate for an organization to have a man at its head who is sufficiently liberal to allow new departures, but who will check any hasty and thoughtless action.

With the aid of constructive outside criticism "The News" has improved its make-up, write-ups, heads, and advertising. Though this improvement is far from perfection, the new board is expected to carry on the work already begun.

The Dial

WITH no drastic alteration in make-up "The Dial" for 1934 makes a rather orthodox appearance. Since it is the custom that each "Dial" follow the tradition set by its predecessors, The Board has devoted its total efforts in making the usual material as attractive as is possible. The editors, in compiling it, have adopted the policy of The Dial's being strictly an Upper Form Annual, with the result that most of the book is concerned chiefly with Sixth and Fifth Formers. The Board, realizing the popularity of the "Scrapbook" and "Diary," is proud to declare these departments more attractive than ever before. In the full-page drawings, we take special pride.

Naturally, the economic tension of the times has played a very important role in the editing of the book, it has been necessary for each member of The Board to devote a great part of his time to the obtaining of advertisements. But through the hearty co-operation of all the editors, under the invaluable guidance of Mr. Swift and with the help of well-wishers and some school organizations, the publishing of "The Dial" has been made possible.

The Dial Board feels proud of this volume, and, we hope, rightly so. It is wished that he to whom it has been dedicated will cherish it as much as we ourselves cherish the honor of editing it.

The Record

THE past year has been a fairly crucial period in the history of The Record. The 1933 Board had succeeded in a very convincing way in putting the magazine "back on its feet." Whether this beneficial effect should be lasting depended in large measure on the success of The Record in the school year of 1933-34. The result of this year's activity indicates that a stability has been achieved which bodes well for the future of the publication.

The policy of the 1934 Board has been essentially a conservative one. No startling innovations were attempted, no great "spreading-out" programs characterized the year's work. The Board sincerely tried to give The Record's readers each month a concise and interesting publication. While no stupendous achievements were recorded, a first place was gained in the annual Columbia Scholastic Press Association contest. The business policy, likewise conservative, further aided in establishing the fact that The Record can be and is entirely self-supporting.

As for the actual contents, firstly, there were two standard monthly articles. The Leader, written by the Editor-in-Chief, was usually either of an essay type or an article containing information about old and somewhat unfamiliar varieties of English literature. The other standard article, Nelson Drummond's Looking Forward, was a feature of which The Record may well be proud. Dealing with current national and international events, and written in a lucid and interesting style, this monthly article served the very useful and worthy purpose of presenting to Record readers information and comment of vital interest.

The magazine also contained short stories, a few one-act plays and essays, and poetry. The principal short story contributors were Carl Jellinghaus, Daniel Gillmor, Ned Hassett, Allen Diefenbeck, and William Cremers. The poetry of this year's Record, while not super-abundant, was admittedly of high calibre. The most productive in this line was Ted Wylie, whose efforts have been recognized for some time as capable of being a credit to practically any publication. Wayne Bleakley and Daniel Dyer also contributed several poems of note. Altogether, the most pleasing feature of The Record from the Board's point of view, was its general aspect of literary balance and diversity of material.

The 1934 Board expresses its sincere appreciation to the Record reviewers of the past year for their contributions, and to Mr. Shrigley, the adviser. In handing over the reins to the 1935 Board, the first thought is one of wishing the best of good luck to its successors. The second is this: The Record's "prosperity corner" may well have been reached. Certainly a lighter sky is in the offing. Whole-hearted School support of the 1935 Board will aid its members to put out a bigger and better Record than their predecessors. May The Hill accord them that support!

The English Club

THE ENGLISH Club is an organization of considerable importance in the developing of literary interest among those Sixth Formers who are included in its membership. It is fortunate in having for its personal use a small room in Memorial Hall equipped with easy chairs and a rapidly increasing collection of books, including poetry, drama, and fiction of the better type. Here is afforded for the member a haven of retreat to be used at his desire, either to escape from the distractions of the dormitory or to avail himself of the volumes on hand.

Incoming members are elected from the Fifth Form in the spring and are officially welcomed at a banquet before the close of school. There are fourteen members this year who meet regularly every other Thursday evening in the Headmaster's study. Whenever the Wendells are so kind to invite the Club, it meets at their private home, which, with a log fire in Winter, forms an excellent setting for such a meeting.

The Club extends its grateful thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Wendell, Mr. Rolfe, and the other faculty members for their efforts to make each meeting a successful one. Each member appreciates the thoughtful criticism of his selected reading.

The Book Shop

HE principle upon which The Book Shop is founded is the supplying of the School with books other than standard textbooks. A very small stock of travel, fiction, drama, and the like is kept on display, but most of the business is done by special orders. Since it is a business enterprise, every effort is made by the three members to have only the best and most interesting books on hand.

This is the sixth year of operation, but never before has The Shop been so successful and profitable to its members. So well were its books received by the school, that Mr. Chancellor, who has given tirelessly of his efforts in making it a success, announces that in 1935 there will be made an important addition. Instead of having only a small display of books, The Shop will greatly increase its stock and run more on the basis of a standard book store.

The Press Club

IN 1924 there was started at The Hill an organization known as the Press Club. The club is composed of five fellows, who in the capacity of their various offices make known to the outside world the current events of The Hill. In this way the newspapers of the large cities as well as the home town papers of the students are informed of the results of school athletic contests and the achievements both scholastic and extra-curricular of the student body. To aid in this purpose, the Press Club keeps on file an individual record of each student and his various accomplishments.

During the Fifth Form year, competition is held for positions in the club, and those who are elected take office during their Sixth Form year.

Aided by Mr. Allyn, the faculty adviser, the Press Club has in the past year been quite influential in increasing the publicity of the school.

The Science Forum

THE Science Forum was founded in the Spring of 1932 after the completion of the new Science Building had brought together a group of boys particularly interested in the various branches of science. It was planned to keep the group small and to restrict membership to those genuinely interested. In line with this policy there were five senior and six junior members this year. The group meets each Sunday afternoon, and is addressed either by one of the members or an outside speaker. It is the plan of the club to give each fellow some experience in addressing his fellows and to have information disseminated on each subject by one whose particular interest is (in) that subject. Besides these regular meetings a banquet is held at the end of the Spring term and trips are made to nearby points of scientific interest. This year the club journeyed to Philadelphia to visit the Franklin Institute Museum and Planetarium. The success with which the forum has met is largely due to the efforts of its adviser, Mr. Hilkert.

MEMORIAL to Gordon Clement was given to the school several years ago in the form of the Week-end Camp. Its main purpose is to offer a week-end diversion to any member of the school. The camp itself owns over a hundred acres of wooded land, thus offering ample territory for walking, in the daytime and evening.

Membership to the club is open to any member of the school. Every Saturday a group of boys, accompanied by a master, go to spend the night and following day.

Mr. Harter, the adviser to the club, has been invaluable in making it The Hill's most delightful spot for diversion. His careful planning has made possible the reducing of the fees from four dollars to three dollars per week-end.

The Hill School Y. M. C. A.

THE Y. M. C. A. has passed through a more than successful year, and is greatly indebted to the school for their wonderful co-operation and generosity. Three phases of the "Y" work have been outstandingly successful.

The speakers have been excellent. Dr. Henry Crane, of Scranton, and Dr. Erdman Harris, of New York, gave outstanding talks, as did Mr. Kirby Page, well known author and editor from New York. The informal meetings were found to be very popular and were carried out through the entire school year.

Because the annual "Y" Drive exceeded the goal by some two hundred dollars, several of the pledges were increased, among them the Bethany Mission. There has been a fast growing interest in this field, and many boys from The Hill have conducted classes in that mission, with the result that much fine work has been accomplished.

Shortly before the close of the winter term, an appeal for old clothes was made by a poor southern community. Under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. the school was canvassed, with the outcome that a surprisingly large quantity of clothes and shoes were sent.

The Y. M. C. A. Executive Committee is deeply grateful to Mr. Collier for his invaluable advice and assistance. To those members of the Sixth and Fifth Forms who helped in the Drive, and to those interested in the Bethany work, the Board wishes to express its gratitude.

The Dramatic Club

ON Saturday evening, April 29, The Hill School Dramatic Club presented "The Haunted House," an amusing mystery comedy by Owen Davis, and directed by Mr. Conley. For the first few seconds of the play, the hall was in total darkness. Then the curtains opened and revealed a man prowling around by the light of his flashlight. From that time on the play progressed rapidly, incident following incident in quick succession with no let-down of interest. The audience was kept alternately amused and breathless by the plot, which concerns a bridal couple which has decided to spend its honeymoon in a country house which belongs to the girl's father. The latter is opposed to this because he feels the house is haunted. Indeed many weird and strange noises are heard, and a tramp is found trying to escape. The couple are about to leave when a former sweetheart of the groom comes to disturb the serenity of their lives. She leaves broken-hearted, and a shot is heard. The constable comes, also an author, a near-neighbor who craves atmosphere for his writings. Since he saw a car and a girl, and there is now no trace of the girl and there is a pool of blood near her car, the author deduces that she has been murdered. He takes command of the situation and lays the blame on each character in turn. But the bride's father enters the scene and admits firing the shot. A detective is on the point of making the arrest when the "murdered" girl returns. The author admits that he was responsible for the ghost and weird noises, and the milkman finds the lost body—it is Nellie, his favorite cow.

The piece has a great deal of satirical humor, comic relief, and all the weird noises, women's screams, scuffles, and mysterious darkenings of the stage that accompany a mystery play. In fact all the essentials of several good mysteries were embodied in "The Haunted House," with enough comedy and comic relief for a few church social programs thrown in.

The set was attractively furnished and decorated with Mr. Conley's usual extraordinary ability for such details and much credit is due him for the splendid way the play went off.

Nelson Drummond, as the tramp, did an excellent piece of work. His make-up, carriage, demeanor, and interpretation were fine, and he was most convincing. J. Allen Diefenbeck made a charming Emily. He lacked the mature power to make his acting finished, yet his performance was on the whole very commendable. Walter Walne, Jr., gave a praiseworthy performance as the groom. It was a difficult task, but he carried it off very smoothly.

Clarence Norsworthy, Jr., was a good chauffeur, and Wallace King certainly looked the part of a temperamental author seeking atmosphere, and Thaddeus Hutchinson as his wife, gave a finished performance.

Richard Biddle, as the former fiancée, Caleb Paine, as the milkman, Chester Congdon, as the detective, Cornelius Watson, as the father, and George Berkey, as the constable, all contributed well-acted bits to the performance.

Review of the Sixth Form Show

REVIEWER'S life would be a veritable bed of roses if he were required to comment only on productions as lively, witty, and smoothly-directed as the Sixth Form Show of '34 on view last Thursday night for the edification and amusement of the School.

The performance got off to a brisk start with the opening chorus (lyrics by Mr. Stafford) poking its nimble satire at the tired masters and their ladies who perennially haunt the front row, the Dell and its denizens above and below the surface, the bill-of-fare in Grill and dining room, the balky talkie, and other landmarks of Hill experiences.

Wallace King in the guise of the minister making his weekly announcements succeeded admirably in whetting the curiosity of the audience by adroit remarks or lifted eyebrows. Like Balieff of Chauve-Souris fame, he stepped from behind the curtain, declared his wares without apology or ballyhoo, and disappeared as casually as he came, leaving his audience chuckling expectantly.

The first skit, "Kidnapped," showed that what may happen to a hardened criminal in the practical hands of a really alluring maiden. Robert Meyer in the role of Miss Betty Gottrox kept the right balance between forlorn resignation and aggressive seductiveness to outwit Finucane, the guileless villain.

Congdon, Weinberger, Gambrill, and Soule, laying aside their choral vestments and donning the gaudy garb of bellhops, won deserved applause in their two appearances by their rendition, with excellent harmony, of selections from popular songs.

"The Cure" was a clever adaptation of a familiar story going the rounds of the colleges in various versions. Congdon was well cast as headmaster, correctly austere, with a saving tinge of paternalism. Paine, his assistant, should be the answer to an executive's prayer in his prompt efficiency and meticulous attention to detail. One would never have suspected, unless told in advance, that David Close was substituting for Hartley with only an hour's preparation. In fact this critic wondered whether the announcement of Hartley's indisposition on Thanksgiving night might not be a deftly veiled barb of satire. Having satisfied himself to the contrary, however, he is obliged to congratulate Close upon his role as new boy, and to thank him for revealing the secret truth which has been lurking in his suspicions concerning the correct texture, length, and design of a headmaster's underwear.

"The Three—" introduced Close, "Red" Jamison, Ingraham, Nalty and Ewing in a delightful bit of anti-climax. As the tale of destruction was unrolled and baleful plots were hatched in that sinister hideout the "Big Shot's" announcement upon his feverishly-awaited arrival caught everyone off guard. After the denouement we were hoping that another fairy tale would follow and that The Big Bad— would spring from the violin case; but no, its contents remain an unsolved mystery.

The next scene should provide a timely warning to fond faculty parents. They are advised to keep their coy and demurely coquettish daughters with the baby stare removed from the glances of the chorus that "fell so hard" for Jellinghaus, toying with his stereoscope on the sofa.

"The Broadcasting Studio" threatened several times to stop the show; it was broad burlesque, but very capably carried out, uproariously costumed, and smoothly managed. Scudder, as Ben Bray, and his "Golden Asses" furnished some warm notes before director Ewing aroused professional rivalries by passing the microphone around. George has quite a strut, strikingly suggestive of Cab Calloway or "Jazzlips" Richardson in their more fervent moments.

Let's give Steckel and Chase a great big hand! Their solo performances were, in this reviewer's humble estimation, the high water mark of the performance.

Of course Spalding had an unenviable assignment in convincing the skeptics about the merits of crooning, but the vociferous applause was a tribute to his success and persuaded him modestly and blushing to oblige with an encore. How much longer he might have been induced to continue was settled by the hard-boiled director, who, to Jesse's marked relief, turned the microphone over to Steckel, the dietitian.

Having been forced too often to listen to recipes with dic-ed car-rots and chop-ped pep-pers sprinkled or beaten to a fl-uff or fol-ded lightly into what-have-you, we took roguish delight in the lady's ultimate embarrassment. We always suspected that she wore noseglasses, choker collar, droopy hat, and putty-colored shoes, and walked with a mincing gait and rotary elbows. While we agree that recipe broadcasters should be stifled in a way as effective as Ewing's, we could have enjoyed more of Steckel's flawless impersonating. The look of chagrin, confusion, and hauteur with which he slew Ewing was superb.

Drummond from his pince-nez to his blatant golf-socks played with realistic touch the sensitive, misunderstood poet who charms the susceptible with his rantings a la Guest, Barton, and Service. Offended by the low comedy of the studio, he retreated with Steckel to a quiet little checker game that was priceless to watch, but even more hilarious comedy was taking place before the microphone in the person of Chase, our good Aunt Bessie of the Mae West contours on the prima donna framework.

From his opening yoo-hoo to his closing gesture of disgust at the refused salary raise, he kept the audience howling and came off the winner by a good two noses in a skit replete with biting satire and robust farce.

The last scene depicting "The Arrest of Catiline" kept the ball rolling merrily. Walne, despite the slipping of his toga, gave a fine version of the aloof patricians in repulsing the angry mob led by Hagner, Brown and others, be it with money or Corona-Coronas. Underwood was a matronly spouse who professionally took the only way out left to her at the tragic end. It is this reviewer's private opinion that the chanting guard of Chase, Finucane, Howard, and Jacob stole the limelight with their resplendent trappings and their maneuvers a la goose-step so uproariously directed by legatus Huvellus. The Latin department should be cheered to know that Hagner had learned the meaning of "pecunia," judging by his panther's pounce for the purse tossed to the mob by Catiline. And to strike the final note of foolishness in this captivating nonsense, was it "peanuts" or "Penates" that Brown was vending so sonorously when he stumbled upon the carnage strewn over the Forum's pavement?

And so, rapidly and dexterously the Sixth Form Show of '34, moved to its glittering finale with bandits, sirens, and soldiers massed in final song selections. The show of '34 goes down in the annals as an exceptionally witty, smoothly moving, well-balanced production. Let us by all means retain the innovation of the opening chorus. It struck a happy keynote and brought a skillful company instantly en rapport with an appreciative audience. Closing salvoes to Mr. Conley for his witty authorship, clever staging, and able direction!

THE DIAL

SEPTEMBER

Wednesday, 20—"Honey Boy" grasps old form in accommodating 100% of new-boy mothers.

Thursday, 21—Reception Committee struts its stuff, being held in profound admiration by its perplexed charges. Hagner, only a beginner (?), has his full share of beginner's luck.

Friday, 22—With the return of those hardened veterans of one and many winters, Term officially begins.

Saturday, 23—Surprised Sixth Form greeted by its new friend and adviser, Mr. Lemley. J. J. S. may be found (if one has exceedingly fine eyesight) in roomy luxuriousness of new Registrar's Office. Futile attempt at classes ends in Junior Prize Day.

Sunday, 24—Sixth Form inflates a rapidly growing ego by having coffee on the porch. Mr. Lemley rather too definitely outlines his program for Term.

Monday, 25—Much-welcomed physical exams interrupt only too few classes.

Wednesday, 27—Sixth Formers complete their rapid conversion to full-fledged superiors by taking in first above-the-board movie.

Thursday, 28—Sixth Formers (and new boys) gather in Mem Hall to hear Chester, on behalf of "News," condemn School and make amends; Meyer lose two-fifty on each "Dial" and miraculously come out even; Spalding hold crowds spellbound with his football prospects; Governor fight Interscholastics, fight Lawrenceville, fight Penn Relays, and fight fight FIGHT; Munger acclaim "that big, pretty, Iowa cornhusker" as the only fine golfer.

OCTOBER

Sunday, 1—Highly expectant new boys received by an accommodating Sixth Form.

Saturday, 7—Jesse and Larry each score against Williamson Trade to take game, 12-6.

Monday, 9—Stan steams on gridiron to the weirdly musical tune of cracking bones.

Tuesday, 10—Walter Walne, playing the role of his infamous namesake, Walter Winchell, undertakes to dig a little dirt for Diary.

Wednesday, 11—Buck "May West" Ewing exhibits an astonishing well-rounded-out accomplishment at first Sixth Form Show tryouts.

Friday, 13—This day of bad omens rather dull.

Saturday, 14—Upper Formers, returning from movies, are affronted by an unwarranted and stubborn visitor, in the form of a quite contented skunk. Fortunately it allowed itself to become the center of attraction without making a display of its beastly qualities.

Wednesday, 18—Cribby receives steller letter and decides to purchase map of New York City for use over week-end.

THE DIAL

Thursday, 19—A few brighties leave for week-end in New York.

Friday, 20—Sixth Formers go to New York for Poly Prep game (?). Several nearly, but not quite, reach Ebbet's Field by the half. Dollar brings victory with long pass. "Gallant Fox" wins the day.

Saturday, 21—Fox and Steckel go with the Russos to see football game (?). Team returns after a big day and night at Princeton.

Tuesday, 24—Red tweeks Uncle John Collier in Chapel with hand-tweekin' machine. Ike Thomas, in pulpit, rather perplexed when Collier, taking toy from Red, tweeks himself and jumps terrified from seat.

Saturday, 28—Immunity of Red Shirt to suds seems well established by another 7-7 tie.

Monday, 30—A crimson hue appears beneath the old goatee as Swifty is forced to remove dog from pulpit. The same beast, which Ewing transformed into an extraordinarily formidable bed-companion, is, by chance I assure you, named "Duke."

NOVEMBER

Sunday, 5—F. Worm Brown, at an unexpected moment "catches" Harry Fox in the tender caress of Colleen.

Monday, 6—Jas I. makes an exceedingly unexpected return to School, feeling that he should not allow an institution with such democratic principles remain uninformed on the latest Broadway shows. Unfortunately, his only comment on "She Loves Me Not" was "a little rough in spots."

Friday, 10—Dark day in school history when, amid flurries of snow, Hotchkiss gives us first defeat in three years, 14-13.

Saturday, 11—Jovial spirit of Pipe Club tremendously renovated as football squad becomes wrapt in a very dense blanket of blue smoke.

Sunday, 12—Johnny King, with bad leg, greatly appreciates an impromptu midnight ride as football men take over Week-end Camp.

Monday, 13—Harry Smith wishes thorough ruin and damnation for Mr. D. when, after premier basketball tryout, puddles of sweat formulate on polished floor.

Tuesday, 14—Hagner and Charlie Jacob, diligently believing in its obviously fruitful merits, take Chemistry exam under Honor System—by some weird stroke of providence they both managed to get 73's.

Wednesday, 15—Entire Sixth Form (and, it is understood on such a notable occasion, many others) files into movie for "The Three Little Pigs."

Thursday, 23—Broogie, after two weeks of indecision and confusion concerning girl, decides to wait till tomorrow for final outcome.

Friday, 24—Upon arrival of Dance Committee with its cherished and, in many instances, expectant charges the prom swirls into activity.

Saturday, 25—Pipe Club principal habitat of feminine beauty. Meyer attempts a very suitable climax for the week-end by mentioning ball diamond—but to no avail.

Sunday, 26—A thoroughly interesting and enlightening session in 40 U. S.; "Will you kiss me goodnight?"—"No"—"Oh," and Charlie Jacob sorrowfully treads down the stairs. Hagner voices very revealing views on feminine subjects.

DECEMBER

- Saturday, 2—A certain very prominent master sees the sights of the Big City via a certain Orpheum Dance Palace.
- Sunday, 3—Group of Sixth Formers, with appearances strangely resembling those of half-plucked chickens, return from week-end drive to New York and New Haven.
- Monday, 4—Nalt and Randy, in a mood of joyful frivolity, unsuccessfully transport water across the bed in an unreliable container.
- Wednesday, 6—"Oh, where! Oh, where! are my silk pajamas?" asks Miss MacDonald, very embarrassed, to—no other—than our Charlie.
- Sunday, 10—Bobby Noyes describes rather pressing circumstances to a newly acquired Baldwin namesake.
- Tuesday, 12—Mr. Stahl quite perplexed over the procedure of his next statement in Contemporary Thought, after "Bubbet says he doesn't know."
- Wednesday, 13—Amid dolls and all suitable playthings for very young tots, Santa Claus Swifty, with a trite little bit of verse, spreads good cheer to each and every one.

- Thursday, 14—En route home, John Hunn, sensing a special mission in life, undertakes to enlighten some of the supposedly ignorant souls with the very revealing facts of life.
- Friday, 15—The bad boys of a restless herd depart for new hunting grounds.

The Winter Term

JANUARY

- Thursday, 4—Davis nimbly prancing between the third and fourth steps, irresolutely checks in.
- Friday, 5—A thunderous bell has no effect upon a dissipated Student Body.
- Saturday, 6—Jas. I. expounds at great length on wonderful advantages of Pottstown weather—this is the fourth consecutive day of rain.
- Tuesday, 9—Hear Ye! Hear Ye! it is whispered abroad that Broogie, the Form Prowler, has reformed—there will be no more fire escapes on moonlight nights.
- Wednesday, 10—Disloyal Sixth Form turns to movie while basketball team downs Haverford by virtue of Captain Smale's 19 points.
- Thursday, 11—Tibi makes second arrival of Term.
- Saturday, 13—Mr. Bell tries in vain to convince School that the source of scrambled eggs is authentic, and not synthetic, chickens. Princeton Fresh first outside team to win on Gillison Court.
- Sunday, 14—The aloof elite of Pottstown object to the Wednesday dress of Sixth Formers. First Forum and Smoker held.

THE DIAL

Monday, 15—Ralph, Jackie Meyer, and "Lightnin'" Hailey rather unprofitably play the ponies to the melodious tune of 40 demerits.

Tuesday, 16—Billy Brown shoots "the frog" while demonstrating d t of m (delirium tremens of mathematics).

Thursday, 18—Uncle John Collier gains questionable climax to "Y" campaign talk by giving first-hand, inside "dope" on the straining of anti-freeze through a loaf of bread.

Friday, 19—Democratic Amédée, as scorekeeper, does his part towards gaining a Sixth Form basketball victory.

Sunday, 21—A bloated Faculty, accepting the profuse Sixth Form hospitality, decides it's more in keeping with the laws of gravity to begin on top floor and descend as the gastric burden increases.

Monday, 22—Hi! Hi—Ho! Ho!—Hike, Hike! Oscy, having devoured everything from chocolate milk to caviar, is completely incapacitated.

Tuesday, 23—"Ee Hi! First time in twenty years!" ejaculates Colby when Trojans overcome Greeks. McVitty looks as if he may make the grade, scoring only twenty-one points.

Wednesday, 24—Dr. Crane rather definitely informs us that he desires to be called "a low-down, gutless, yellow dog" when found in rank for next war.

Thursday, 25—Hal, at dawn of holiday, elated over prospects for twelve hours of bridge.

Saturday, 27—"Ty," Screwy and others, with, Oh! such nasty, cruel intentions (dear me!), undertake to ruffle smoothy Glaenzer at basketball game.

Tuesday, 30—Dave Forman returns for recuperation after having one of his very convenient "treatments."

Wednesday, 31—Committee quite advantageously selects morning periods to make an eight hour, all-time record for adjournment. Sixth Form flocks to movies to see "Henry VIII," or, at least, his six wives.

FEBRUARY

Thursday, 1—A blooming business belonged to certain Under Formers who, it is revealed, have been demanding outrageous prices for "merchandise" in their combination smoking-parlor-speakeasy. Of course the Committee could not allow such an irreputable business to continue—the doors were padlocked and those concerned took a ride home.

Friday, 2—Much to the chagrin of his classmates, Drummond's French mark drops fifty points. School takes to skiis through virtue of yesterday's snowfall. Mid-years get off to a questionably good start.

Saturday, 3—Long John shows "them young college boys" that he's still got the necessary stuff by setting new World's Record in 60-meter high at 7.5 seconds. British Educational Film presents "Jungle on Your Floor."

Sunday, 4—"When two ponderous objects collide" was the case of The Peach Bloomy with ice.

Monday, 5—Munger sets an all-time ceiling upon receiving a certain, too uncertain telegram from Mary Jane.

Wednesday, 7—Raise the flag, boys, the crowds are roaring—Scalp passed his Mechanical Drawing exam.

Thursday, 8—A totally unprecedented stroke of compassion, chicken-heartedness, or what-have-you, has involved Mr. James Isaac—there will be entertainments for next three nights, no prepared classes tomorrow, and holiday Saturday—to the vexation of Sixth Form. Term End exams will replace Mid-years next year.

Friday, 9—Emmy solemnly slumbers at Chemistry lecture.

Monday, 12—Doc Harter tells his classes about Station EA4AL in Madrid. Strangely, it came in like a local.—G N Senor Harter.

Tuesday, 13—Minnie and his Fifth Form mice down stalwart skaters of the Sixths, 5-4, after two extra periods.

Wednesday, 14—Spike, with kittenish pride, boldly exhibits a great big red Valentine.

Thursday, 15—Some of the boys figured that Study Hall should be a bit better ventilated and open all the windows, hoping Pop Turner might show compassion in sub-zero weather and allow even David Yuengling to visit his room.

Friday, 16—A surreptitious love triangle involving Davis and Hagner uncovered in Dining Hall.

Saturday, 17—While awaiting a tardy Princeton Prep basketball team, the bridge hounds revert to their type.

Sunday, 18—If the name for her little pet personal puppy bears any significance, we are justified in saying that a certain Sixth Former is making rapid progress.

Wednesday, 21—The Form, in a mad frenzy, runs all the way from Pipe Club to movie. Whom did they see by Founder's House? And, much to their surprise and chagrin, whom did they see awaiting them at the movie?

Sunday, 25—Munger and Walne rather comfortably retire under six blankets, two sweaters, and two overcoats with all windows closed and heat on, during coldest night in history, 12 below.

Monday, 26—Doc Harter, highly elated over connecting with Greenland Expedition, is disappointed by learning that those "R 9" signals came from Phinzy and Foot in 73 U. S.

Tuesday, 27—Ralphy has a disagreeable time with moonlight skiing.

Wednesday, 28—More snow falls as Meyer has trouble with local ingénues.

MARCH

Thursday, 1—Keys to switchboxes filched as Fifth Form moves in to hear Carnera-Loughran.

Saturday, 3—Papa D, after too strenuous impromptu callisthenics, prepares for collapse when Lawrenceville wins, 32-21. Excellent production of "Journey's End" by Student-Faculty.

Sunday, 4—Wayne antagonized by Dr. Crane's personal crucifixion.

Monday, 5—Spring is here! Foote is surprised singing "Love is the Sweetest Thing."

Thursday, 8—Hardy and Richards mercilessly run terrified Alec Rice up a tree with snowballs.

Saturday, 10—Orlie Morgan's Woeful Washouts furnish Baldwin music.

Sunday, 11—Who poisoned the food?—Clummus did, of course.

Monday, 12—Wendells adopt strict cornflakes diet after disagreeable results of yesterday's food.

Tuesday, 13—"Who is this Clummus McGlummus?" asks Mr. Rice feverishly.

Wednesday, 14—Clummus McGlummus deftly "gets" Chapel organ.

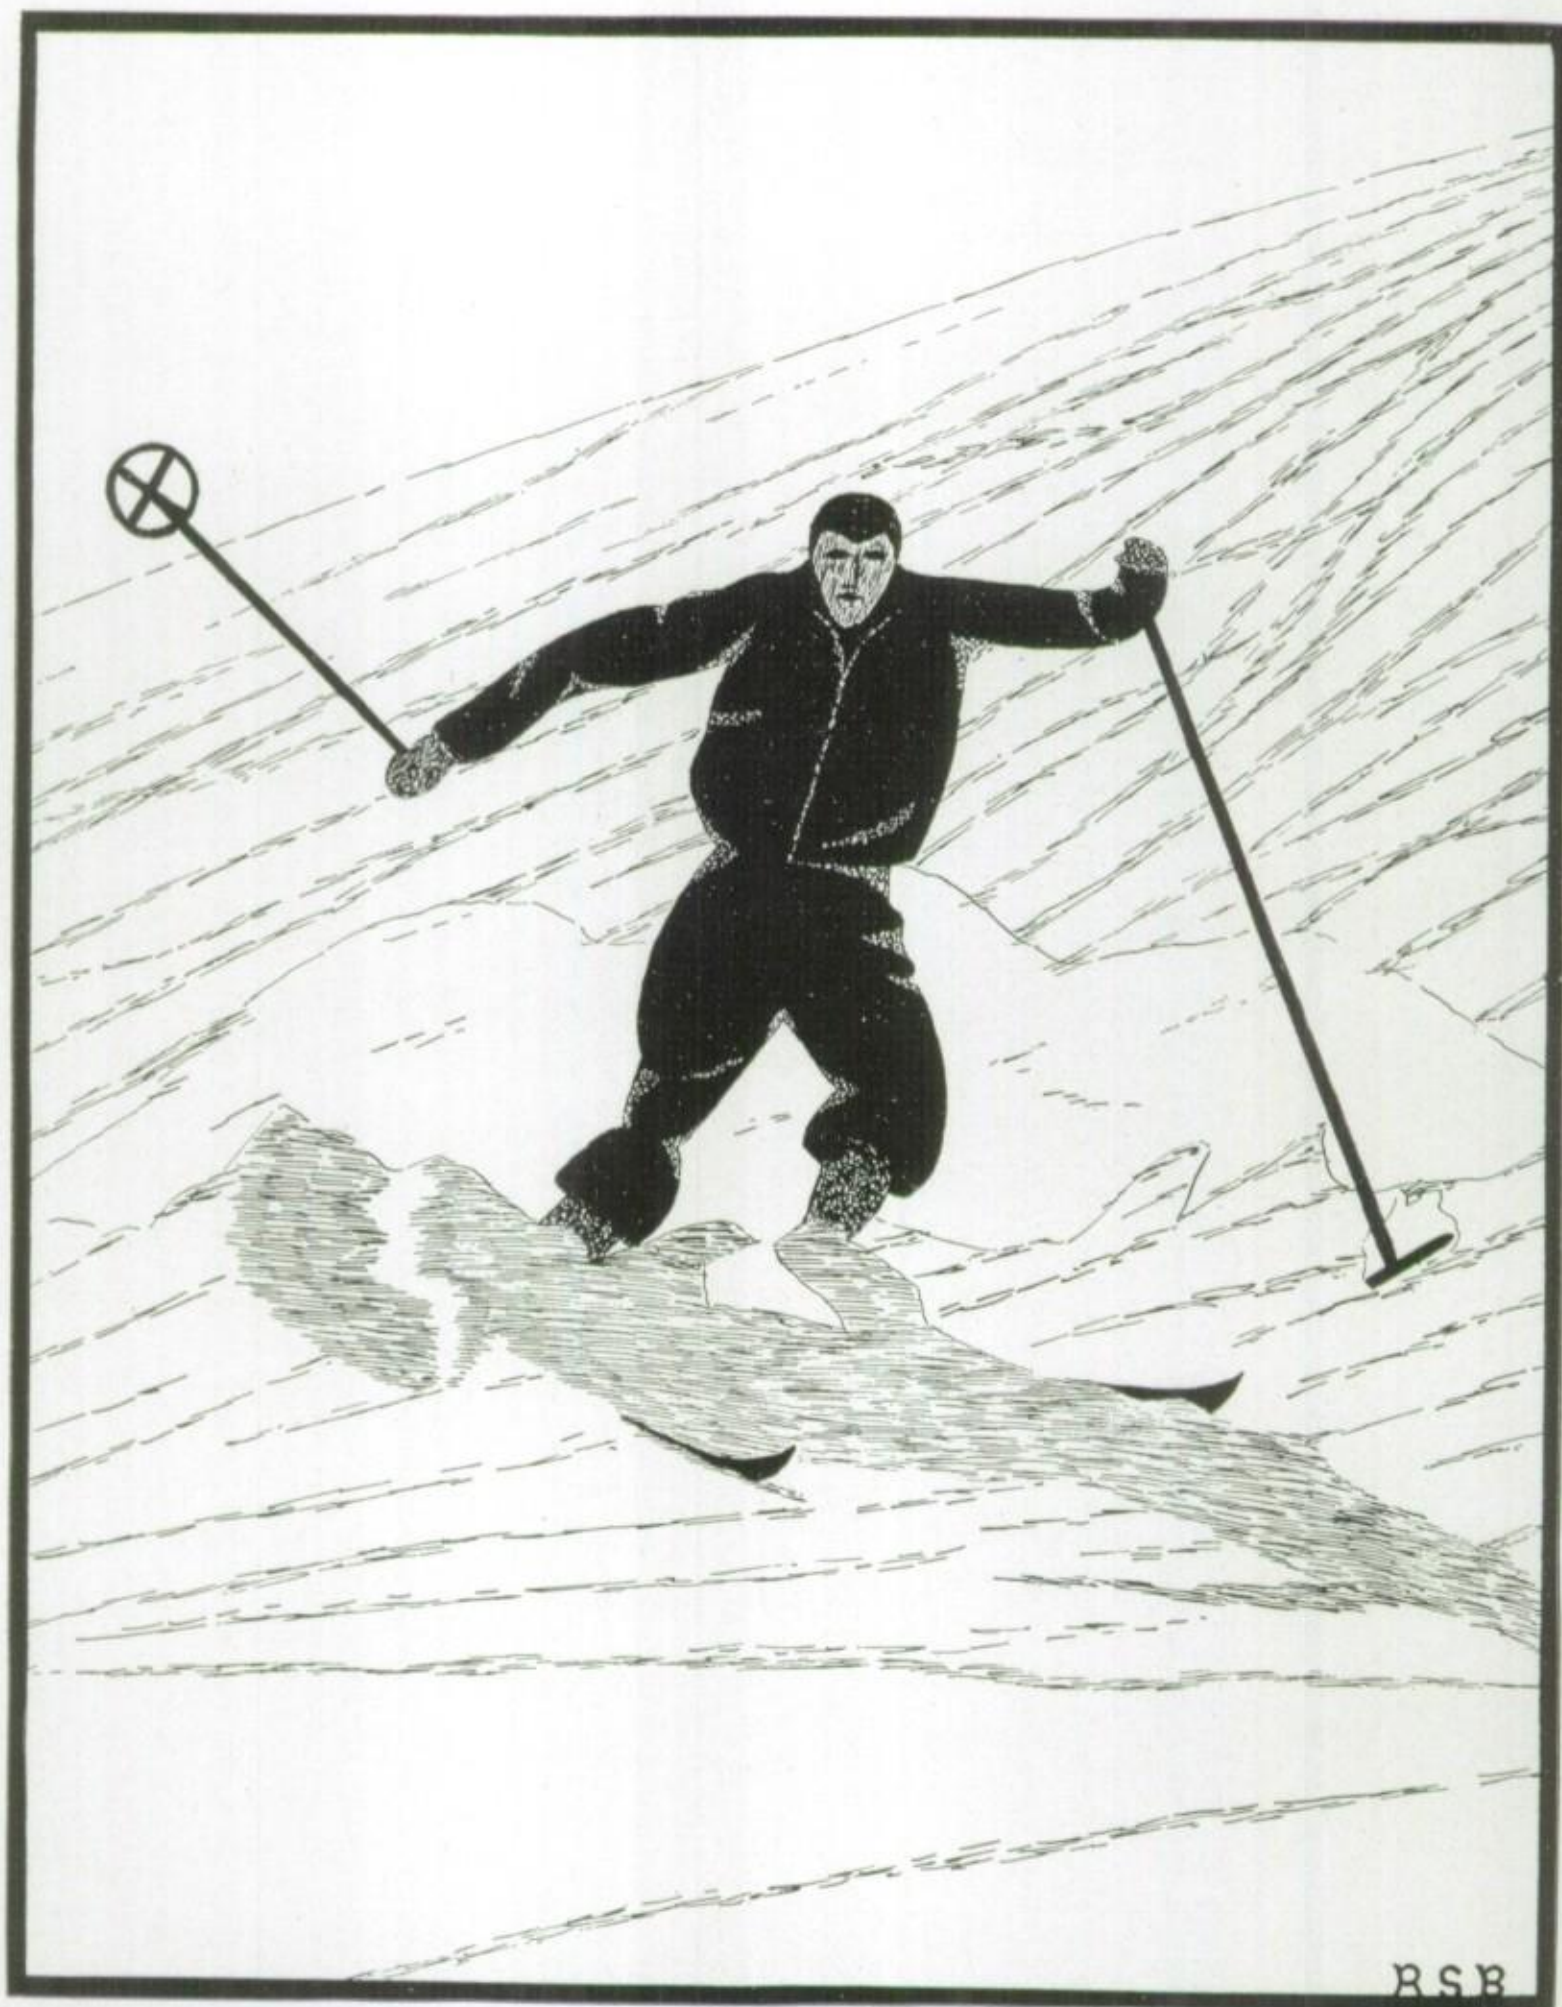

Thursday, 15—Red ruthlessly devastates three taxis; Screwly obliterates 'phone booth; Fisher, while en route, goes into solitary confinement; Davis at least not riotous; and Walne plays nursemaid while Hagner and Nalty acquit themselves as gentlemen.

Friday, 16—So we depart with those yesterdays which look backward with a smile.

EXTRA QUART

—of Quaker State Motor Oil. And the reason . . . because Quaker State is not only made from 100% pure Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil—it is also super-refined!

This famous “extra step” removes the 25% or more of non-lubricating material which ordinary refining leaves in every gallon of ordinary motor oil . . . and replaces it with pure, rich lubricant. As a result—you get an extra quart of lubrication in every gallon of Quaker State Motor Oil . . . And that's why Quaker State lubricates better and lasts longer.

An Expression Of Appreciation And Some News

A year ago, Roger Kent first introduced to the Hill our sane idea of presenting correctly styled clothes, expertly tailored of fine imported and domestic fabrics, at a moderate price.

Hill men were quick to recognize the smart, authentic style and extraordinary value of Roger Kent clothes — and our idea took hold in another style centre!

We take this opportunity to thank the men of the School for the friendship they have shown. And to bring members of the graduating class some good news: next year, besides our New Haven store for Yale men, we shall have a representative visiting Princeton, Williams and Harvard at regular intervals. We look forward to welcoming you there, in the same hearty manner you welcomed us to the Hill!
